APPENDIX E: EXISTING PUBLIC USE AREAS

There are many existing public use sites along the Old Spanish Trail, including state and national parks, historic sites, monuments, recreation areas, highway historical markers, historic districts, campgrounds, picnic areas, national forests, scenic roads, and museums (see below). A number of these public use sites (such as state and national parks, historical markers, and museums) have some thematic relationship either directly or indirectly with the Old Spanish Trail. Others (such as national parks and picnic areas) do not relate directly to the history of the trail, but could offer opportunities for the public to learn about, see, experience, and appreciate the trail. Not all public use sites would qualify as officially certified or federal components of a National Historic Trail.

The following public use sites are in or near the corridors of the branches of the Old Spanish Trail.

National Park Service Areas, National Forests, Bureau of Land Management Areas

See Appendix G for a listing of National Park Service areas, national forests and Bureau of Land Management resource areas.

American Indian Lands

Pueblos and other American Indian lands, except for tribal parks and designated public use areas, are generally closed to the public except during special events. See appendix G for a listing of tribes found on or near the trail. Some tribal parks are found in the following listing.

As the Nation's principal conservation agency, the Department of the Interior has responsibility for most of our nationally-owned public lands and natural resources. This includes fostering sound use of our land and water resources; protecting our fish, wildlife, and biological diversity; preserving the environmental and cultural values of our national parks and historical places; and providing for the enjoyment of life through outdoor recreation. The Department assesses our energy and mineral resources and works to ensure that their development is in the best interests of all our people by encouraging stewardship and citizen participation in their care. The Department also has a major responsibility for American Indian reservation communities and for people who live in island territories under U.S. administration.
